

Disclaimer

The information on this website has been provided for general interest only. Although we make every effort to keep the information on our website accurate and up-to-date we do not guarantee this. If you make use of the information on this site it is at your own risk.

Our website contains links to other websites. These links have been established on the basis that they may be of use to people visiting our site for further information., and Dyslexia Australia has no control over the information contained on these other websites. We disclaim any liability in respect of the information contained on these other websites. We accept no liability for any loss or damage or cost incurred to you as a result of our website being infected by a computer virus or other defect.

Dyslexia Australia makes no warranty that this website or any products or services advertised will meet your requirements, will be uninterrupted, timely and secure or error free.

No advice or information, whether oral or written, obtained by you from or through this website creates any warranty not expressly made in our Terms and Conditions.

Recommendations may be made by Dyslexia Australia for further advise and assistance, however it is up to the individual to make an informed decision as to the help they ultimately commit to.

Dyslexia Australia is not responsible for any actions you take or decisions you make as a result of telephone conversation(s), e-mail(s) or during or after consultation(s) and/or Educational Assessments and/or program(s).

Email Disclaimer

We do not warrant that an email or its attachments are error or virus free. Email communications (including any attachments) which contain legally privileged or confidential information are intended only for the addressee. If you are not the intended recipient, then any storing, dissemination, distribution or copying of this communication is strictly prohibited. You may not engage or contact the intended recipient or disclose or use the information in any way. If you have received an email in error, please notify us immediately by return email and delete the original email, destroy any printed copy and do not disclose or use the information in it.

When addressed to our clients or any person(s) contacting Dyslexia Australia, any opinions or advice contained in the communication are subject to the terms and conditions expressed above. If you have received an email in error, please notify us immediately by return email and delete the original email, destroy any printed copy and do not disclose or use the information in it.

Emails are copyright. Dyslexia Australia is not liable if an attachment is altered without its written consent.

Person(s) contacting Dyslexia Australia ,or consultants to Dyslexia Australia, will provide true and accurate information with goodwill and honesty..

Privacy Policy

1. Privacy Act 1988 (Cth)

From 21 December 2001 the National Privacy Principles ("NPPs") contained in Schedule 3 of the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) regulate the collection, use and disclosure of personal information. We are conscious of the importance of maintaining the confidentiality of your personal information. You can be assured that we only collect personal information that is necessary for us to carry out our duties. We also take all reasonable steps to ensure that your personal information is not disclosed to or accessed by unauthorised persons.

2. Personal Information

The personal information which we hold may include your name and or members of your family, residential address, postal address, telephone/mobile telephone number(s), email address(es), occupation, place of work, date of birth or membership professional association. No credit card information is stored on Dyslexia Australia's computer. Currently no personal information is stored externally.

3. Organisations to which we may disclose information

We may be required to pass on information about you to particular third parties. The most likely entities to which we may provide information include: Educational Consultants, Company Directors, Paypal, committee or professional members of The Dyslexia Association or professionals working within similar area of concern.

4. Holding your personal information

In most cases, your personal information is held by us in electronic format, and online security measures are in place, such as password protection, to ensure that only authorised employees and company directors have access to your information.